About WildlifeCampus

WildlifeCampus is an online school specialising in wildlife education and hospitality.

Our courses are industry-recognised, and we are an approved FGASA Delivery Partner.

Over the past 25 years, more than 30,000 students across 161 countries have taken our courses, which are considered the most comprehensive online offerings in wildlife and hospitality education.

We take pride in being leaders in delivering online wildlife education. We provide an authentic and unique e-learning experience, high-quality content, excellent value for money, and exceptional service. There are no entry barriers, course deadlines, or set semesters. Students are welcome to register and begin any course at any time.

Many WildlifeCampus students have discovered that the knowledge gained from our courses has significantly enhanced their enjoyment of nature. As a result, many have found employment in the wildlife, hospitality, and tourism industries.

Our Top 5 Courses

WildlifeCampus has its own Big 5!

Our Top 5 courses are designed to give you all the knowledge and skills you need to succeed in the wildlife and hospitality industry.

Whether you want to advance your career or expand your knowledge, these courses are an excellent way to achieve your goals and excel!

WildlifeCampus

How the courses work

WildlifeCampus offers online courses with flexible learning solutions. All course content is available for download in PDF format, allowing you to study offline at your convenience. However, you will need an internet connection to complete the tests.

Each course is divided into components, and there is a multiple-choice test for each component. These tests are not written and can be attempted as many times as needed until you achieve the passing mark. Once you pass a test, it cannot be retaken.

Entrance requirements

We have a completely open admission policy with no restrictions or barriers. Anyone can register and start any course at any time, regardless of age, prior qualifications, location, disability, or educational background.

Academic support

Full academic support is available. Students are encouraged to contact us at any time by email for any queries or questions they might have.

WildlifeCampus

Duration of courses

On average, students take 6 to 12 months to complete the Field Guiding (Nature Guiding) and Wildlife Management courses, depending on the time they can dedicate to their studies.

Shorter courses like Game Lodge Management, Front of House Lodge Operations, and Anti-Poaching typically take 0 to 3 weeks each to finish. However, there are no deadlines, so you're free to study at your own pace.

Certification and employment

At WildlifeCampus, we specialise in theory-based learning and do not offer accredited courses, as accredited programs require practical training and assessments.

Instead, our certified courses are designed to equip you with valuable skills, whether you want to learn something new or enhance your existing expertise, making them a great addition to your CV.

All our courses come with certificates of completion. Graduates receive industry-recognised digital certificates via email.

As an Approved FGASA Delivery Provider and a well-respected name in online education since 2000, our courses are highly regarded within the industry. Many of our students have successfully secured positions at lodges and reserves across Sub-Saharan Africa.

While our courses are a great way to enhance your CV, we do not guarantee employment, assist with job placement, or provide advice on work restrictions for non-South African students.

FGASA explained

As an Approved FGASA Delivery Partner, WildlifeCampus ensures that our graduates are fully prepared to pass FGASA's theoretical assessments.

To earn a FGASA qualification, applicants must:

- Join the association.
- Pass the theoretical examination. Our Field Guiding (Nature Guiding) course is specifically designed to prepare you for this.
- Complete a practical assessment. (Details on practical training can be found in the relevant section of this document.)

The formal FGASA qualification, issued by CATHSSETA, is only awarded after successfully completing these steps.

Although it is possible to join FGASA, take the exams, and undergo the practical assessment without completing a course, many candidates fail to achieve the required 75% competency due to insufficient knowledge.

WildlifeCampus courses bridge this gap by thoroughly preparing students.

Please note that while certificates earned through WildlifeCampus's guiding courses include the FGASA logo, they do not grant an official FGASA qualification.

WildlifeCampus

Learn-Protect-Save

Est 2000

Practical training

WildlifeCampus focuses exclusively on online learning and does not offer practical training courses. Our Field Guiding (Nature Guiding) course is designed to fully prepare students for FGASA theoretical assessment, which is the first step toward earning the FGASA qualification.

Once you've passed the FGASA theoretical assessment, you must complete a practical assessment with a FGASA-accredited assessor. Practical training can be pursued in various ways, depending on your personal preference, availability, location (or willingness to travel), and budget.

Full-time training: FGASA Endorsed Practical Training Providers offer comprehensive, full-time programs. Practical training is run by separate providers.

Many providers recommend WildlifeCampus as a pre-departure resource for theory preparation. Students, including international participants, often find completing our course before or after attending a training program beneficial. While not mandatory, it's an excellent supplement to your training experience.

Shorter practical training options : For those unable to commit to full-time training, providers like Bhejane Nature Training and Bushveld Training Adventures offer shorter practical courses. These programs are ideal for WildlifeCampus students who have completed the theory component and want a focused, intensive training option.

These courses include First Aid Training (a FGASA requirement) and the practical assessment necessary to complete your FGASA qualification.

For a full list of FGASA Endorsed Practical Training Providers, please visit the FGASA website.
